OBJECTIVES

EURHODIP was founded with the purpose of creating a platform where organisations can learn from the best European based tourism and hospitality education institutions.

TRANSFORMATIVE EDUCATION

Eurhoqual is a European quality measure instrument used for accreditation based on the framework of the European Foundation for Quality Management system and implemented by EURHODIP.

EURHODIP offers Diplomas to students in hospitality, catering and tourism, according to their level of studies. They are designed to measure and enhance the technical and cultural knowledge, professional capacities (know-how) and personal skills acquired by young people in training.

REPRESENTATIVES

35 countries are represented in our association by more than 140 hotel and tourism schools including the best known in Europe. Most of them are located in the European continent although the 4 other continents are represented.

The Eurhoqual measurement is a unique system which can be used as an internal quality control instrument for institution directors, while giving the school a quality status and the guarantee of quality education for students.

There are two levels of skills and three sub-levels of assessment created based on the European Qualification Framework (EQF):

Technician Levels

- European Diploma of Hotel, Culinary Arts & Catering (level EQF 5)

Management Levels

- European Bachelor of Management in Hospitality & Tourism (level EQF 6)
- European MBA in Hotel & Tourism (level EQF 7)
